ENEMY RETREATS ACROSS THE MARNE.

VIOLENT FIGHTING CONTINUES.

GROWING ALLIED SUCCESS.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail)

THE FRENCH ADVANCE.

VERY BITTER FIGHTING.

ENEMY LOSES GOOD DEAL OF GROUND.

London, July 20,
12.35 a.m.

Reuter's Correspondent at French
Headquarters, telegraphing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the 19th, says:—

The night was relatively calm on the Aisne and the Marne front, the French resting on the line of their new positions captured during the day.

This morning the German reserves were brought up in considerable strength. Fighting is very bitter.
Over 10,000 prisoners were taken yesterday and over 60 guns. His move up the river towards Epervier seems to have been definitely arrested. He is fighting to-day between Oeuilly and Mont Voisin on the ground that he occupied on July 18th.

ENEMY REPULSED BY ALLIES.

London, July 20.

Reuter's Correspondent at French
Headquarters, telegraphing at 11 o'clock to-day, says:—
The Allies are repulsing the Germans on the southern bank of the Marne and are approaching the banks of the river.

GERMANS RETREATING
NORTHWARDS.

London, July 20,
7.30 p.m.

Reuter's Correspondent at French
Headquarters, telegraphing to-day,
says:—
The Germans are retreating the Marne and are retreating northwards.

ENEMY RETREAT ACROSS THE MARNE.

FRENCH.

FRENCH & AMERICANS CAPTURE MORE POSITIONS.

ENEMY DRIVEN BACK.

London, July 20,
4.50 p.m.

A French communiqué states:—
Yesterday and during the night the French and American troops continued to advance along the major portion of the front between the line of the Marne.

We reached Vierz and passed
Monloy Wood to the east of Villers
Holon and captured Neuilly St.
Front and Licy-sur-Clignon.

South of the Marne we drove back the enemy between Fossey and Oeuilly, and gained ground in the direction of the Marne.

ENEMY USING HIS RESERVES.

London, July 20,
5.50 a.m.

A French communiqué states:—
The battle continued most violently the entire day.

Between the Aisne and the Marne the enemy counter-attacked with large reserves, attempting to arrest our advance, which, however, continued on most of the front.

On the left we maintained the plateaux to the south-west of Soissons and in the region of Chaudun.

In the centre we passed over by three kilometres certain points of the line, Vaux-Castille-Villers-Holon-Noroy-sur-Ourcq.

On the right we conquered, after severe fighting, the plateau to the north-west of Monnes Sill and north of Courchamps, we advanced beyond Tortoy.

So far over 17,000 prisoners have been counted, including two Colonels and their staffs.

Three hundred and sixty guns have been captured, including a battery of eight inchers.

Our aviators, on the 18th, in conjunction with the British squadrons were very active on the whole battlefield. The French brought down or disabled 20 machines and set on fire two balloons. The British destroyed seven machines.

Our bombers continued their attacks on the Marne crossings and demolished a foot bridge. They machine-gunned, bombed, and dispersed concentrations of troops at Oulchy, the Vaux Ravine, Fere-en-
Tardenois and Oeuilly.

Projectiles were showered on stations in the rear, causing fires and explosions.

Twenty-two tons of bombs were dropped during the day and 21 tons during the night. The British dropped 24 tons.

BRITISH FORCES ALSO ENGAGED.

OVER 20,000 PRISONERS AND 400 GUNS.

London, July 20.

A French communiqué states:—
As a result of our victorious counter-offensive it was soon apparent that the Germans, violently attacked on their right flank and south of the Marne, were compelled to retreat and re-cross the river.

We hold the whole of the south bank. The French and Americans continue to progress and have driven back the enemy, who is resisting stubbornly.

We reached Ploisy and Parcygnay and have passed St. Remy Blanzay and Rozet St. Albin. Farther south
we hold the general line of the Friez Plateau.

North-east of Courchamps violent fighting is in progress.

Between the Marne and Rheims
French and British troops are attacking vigorously. They encountered large forces. Notwithstanding the desperate enemy resistance, we gained ground in Courban wood, the Andre Valley and towards Ste-Upvaise.

The number of prisoners since the 18th exceeds 20,000. Over 400 guns have been captured.

Our aviators are redoubling their efforts, and have multiplied their raids. During the day and night of the 19th they fiercely fought enemy forces. The French and British bomber squadrons are making the Marne crossings their chief objective and have ceaselessly hampered some points and completely stopped enemy supplies, thus proving an important factor in the enemy retreat. They machine-gunned and bombed concentrations of the enemy preparing for a counter-attack and also bombed his columns and convoys. They inflicted heavy losses. Twenty-four tons of projectiles were dropped during the day and 24 tons by night on the Marne and the rear of the battlefield. Several fires and explosions were observed on the Marne.

The reported arrival of enemy reserves and participated directly in the battle, by machine-gunning the line. Twenty-six German aeroplanes were brought down or disabled in numerous fights by French and British pilots. Four balloons were set on fire. Everywhere German aviation is inferior.

DUNKELD CATHEDRAL.

DUKE OF ATHOLL'S GIFT TO THE NATION.

We have ascertained, says the Glasgow Herald, of May 16, that the Duke of Atholl is prepared to hand over Dunkeld Cathedral to national custody, but before definite arrangements can be made his Grace is obliged to examine the legal position and how far it may be possible to utilise the Cathedral for the necessities of the Church of Scotland. It will be recalled that in accepting the custody of Dryburgh Abbey on behalf of the nation the Duke stated that he knew of a cathedral considerably further north in regard to which informal negotiations were opened some time ago, and would have been completed ere this had it not been for pressure of work caused by the war. The public will learn with peculiar interest and gratification that the cathedral to which he referred is the venerable edifice which is one of the most interesting historic features on his Grace's property at Dunkeld. This is the third gift of a similar kind that has been made by Scottish noblemen within the past few months. Dryburgh Abbey on Tuesday passed into the custody of the nation through the munificence of Lord Glenconner: a few days ago the Duke of Buccleuch indicated his intention of presenting Melrose Abbey, another historic shrine; and now the Duke of Atholl, with characteristic generosity and patriotism, expresses his intention of adding Dunkeld Cathedral to these national possessions.

A historic edifice. The Cathedral of Dunkeld is one of the most interesting ecclesiastical buildings in Scotland, and although in common with many other structures it suffered damage from the misplaced zeal of the Reformers, its main outlines have been sufficiently preserved to evoke the admiration of archaeologists and architects. The Cathedral (whose patron saint is Columba) was begun in the thirteenth century, and was completed in 1468. Its architectural features show a wonderful uniformity. The style is composite—Norman and Gothic. The pillars of the nave, which was seven bays in length, were massive circular shafts measuring 18 feet round. The windows in the body of the building which light the side aisles are particularly fine specimens of pointed architecture, while the great western window is a very notable example of French Flamboyant style with remarkably intricate tracery. The present choir of the Cathedral was built in 1818 by Bishop Sinclair. Within its walls is the tomb of the first Bishops of Dunkeld (national son of King Robert II. of Scotland), who died in 1394. By order of the Privy Council of Scotland in 1600 the Cathedral and choir were destroyed. The injunction was more than literally obeyed. Tradition affirms that the choir was destroyed by a fire which was kindled by a boy named John, who was playing with a candle. The Cathedral stood in its ruined condition until the choir was repaired and roofed by Stewart of Ladywell in 1600. After the Battle of Killiecrankie, in 1689, the victorious Highlanders attacked Dunkeld, and the Cathedral, into which the troops of William III. had thrown themselves, was seriously damaged by fire and assault. In 1691 the Atholl family repaired the choir for worship, and in 1815 again they made a magnificent contribution which resulted in the choir being put into a condition that sufficed for the purpose of worship until an important scheme of restoration was carried out ten years ago.

RESTORATION OF THE CHOIR. The restoration of the choir to its present form, completed in 1908, was due to the generosity of the late Sir Donald Currie of Glasgow, who for many years represented West Perthshire in Parliament. That work cleared away all traces of former restorations which interfered with the original plan, and gave the edifice a character more befitting the venerable pile forming the Cathedral. The large Gothic window in the east gable was thoroughly overhauled, and was filled with a beautiful stained glass group, the figures representing Fortitude, Charity, Prudence, Justice, Faith, Hope, Temperance, and Patience. The next row depicts the shepherds with their flocks, visited by the angels, and in the lower part is seen Saint Columba, addressing the people. Among some interesting discoveries made during the restoration was the tomb of Bishop Sinclair, which was found in a recess inside the north wall in a good state of preservation. The foundation of a monument to that bishop was also discovered. Although, as the Rev. Dr. Theodore Marshall said at the reopening of the choir on October 16, 1908, no ancient church can ever be restored to what it once was, the work that was accomplished through the generosity of Sir Donald Currie shows at least the choir of Dunkeld Cathedral in something like its pristine beauty. The satisfaction felt then that it had been restored in a manner worthy of its noble past will be deepened by the knowledge that the historic Cathedral is to pass into the keeping of the nation.

PEACE EMISSARY IN ENGLAND.

DUTCHMAN GIVEN AN ANSWER FOR KUEHLMANN.

The Central News (London) recently circulated the following:—Number 1, peace emissary, in the person of a Dutch financier, is already in this country, and Number 2, a neutral from another country, is believed to be on the way. The object of the visit of these gentlemen is well known to the authorities, and, indeed, Number 1 has been at no pains to hide it. He obtained an interview with an Intelligence officer of high rank, and has endeavored to convey the impression to high State officials that Germany can never be driven out of France, and that the time is now ripe for a negotiated peace. The Intelligence officer at the close of a lengthy interview told the Dutchman that the Allies intended to win the war, if not by a military victory, by starving Germany of raw material. "Go back and tell Kuehlmann," he said, "that the phrase 'peace by arrangement' is not to be found in the English dictionary, and upon the phrase 'raw material' will not be found in the German one." Kuehlmann's peace offensive is to be conducted through two channels, first by utilizing the political idealists of neutral countries to stimulate idealism here, and secondly by the exercise of pressure by international financiers. The public are to be specially warned against any specious talk of the civil power in Germany, aided by a sweep of reasonableness on the part of the Allies, being able to overthrow German militarism. Talk of this kind is so much nonsense. The German civil power has been dead for a generation. It is no use talking to a corpse, because it won't answer.

ANEMIA MEANS THIN BLOOD.

Correct it in the Early Stages.

In no disease is delay or neglect more dangerous than in anemia, or poverty of the blood. It is common in young girls, and in persons who are overworked or run down by the heat. Anemia makes its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized, and yet pale lips and cheeks, dark lines round the eyes, and a feeling of exhaustion on rising in the morning or after any light exertion, should give a clear warning to victims.

But taken in time there is a specific, a tonic medicine, which increases the number of red blood corpuscles, thus enabling the blood to carry the life-giving oxygen to all the tissues of the body. Dr. Williams' pink pills have had unbounded success in the treatment of this stubborn disease because of this wonderful property. The correction of anemic conditions by Dr. Williams' pink pills is as certain as anything in medical science.

If you are suffering from impoverished blood, you cannot afford to wait another day before giving Dr. Williams' pink pills a thorough trial. Go to any druggist and obtain a supply, or send $1.50 for a bottle (48 for $8) to the China Office of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 95-Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

FREE. A postcard request to the above address will bring you a free copy of a helpful Health Guide.

SCOTTISH LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Edinburgh, May 20.

THE WOMAN AT THE WINDOW.

The Boche is in Albert now, so one may boldly mention that place, regardless of the Censor, who for two or three years made it nameless. I went through the town a year ago, says Mr. Neil Munro, and saw a thing which impressed me with the poignancy of war more than scenes a thousand times more terrible. And it was merely the vision of a woman at a window. When I recall unforgettable sights in the Western Front, review in the mind's eye the ghastly succession of mutilated towns and villages, I invariably end with a memory evocative of a sense of pathos more profound than those—the lonely, hopeless, helpless figure of despair, that woman at a window.

To walk through the square in front of the Cathedral was like walking in a quarry; no part of the town but presented the most doleful scene of ruin. And in the main street no building was intact. It was in this street, a second story window of a frightfully smashed and charred tenement house, I saw the woman. She was neither young nor comely, nor in any way a figure to rouse romantic speculation,—just a plain, middle-aged, humbly-attired working woman, standing motionless at the window of a dwelling-house the greater part of whose front wall had been blown out by a shell explosion. Beyond her, within, was the debris of the walls and furnishings, and a ceiling that hung tattered like rags.

Doubtless it had been her home. She stood, a mute figure of tragedy and despair, and stared with abstracted eyes into the street. And there was no other living creature in any other house in all its length. She was the only civilian I saw that day in Albert; she looked grotesquely out of place; her situation, her appearance of dumb helplessness, her solitude, were inexplicably moving. Probably she had ventured back from Senlis or Millencourt, or some other unharmed village beyond the Ancre, to see for herself what her home looked like. And now she knew.

MELROSE ABBEY.

Melrose Abbey, which the Duke of Buccleuch has intimated his intention of presenting to the nation, nestles in the sheltered and cultivated valley of the Tweed, and is surrounded by gentle, pastoral hills. Its peaceful and sequestered situation, so beloved of the Claverhous, has kindled the fancy of many poets, of whom Sir Walter Scott is the most famous. Border blood was restless, and the Cheviots but a poor barrier against invading hosts from England. The Abbey thus came to play a prominent part in the history of the troubled times of old, and it was often discovered that a warlike heart beat underneath the gub of a monk. It is told how on one occasion during the invasion of Edward II., the Douglas of that day and his hand were secreted in a neighbourly forest awaiting a chance of attacking the English, and it was a monk scout who gave Douglas the signal to rush out and beat back the advance guard of the enemy.

The monk of Melrose had their truce even before the Reformation. Envious, no doubt, of their sleek and portly appearance, "Galahad" wrote of them,—
"The monks of Melrose made guid kail,
On Friday when they fasted;
They wanted neither beef nor ale."

THE SOUTH PACIFIC.

There is, I am told (says the Scotsman) reason to believe that the Imperial authorities will agree to the proposal of the Australian Commonwealth on which has been investigating the conditions in the South Pacific for a joint inquiry concerning the situation as it affects British interests in that part of the world.

France and this country were on the point of arriving at a satisfactory arrangement with reference to the future government of the New Hebrides when war broke out, and it is now understood that, if considered necessary, this will be carried out when hostilities end. Japan is also ambitious in the same direction. For several years she has been anxious to secure some of the islands as an outlet for her surplus population, and it is likely that an agreement suitable to all parties concerned will yet be reached. To-day she is in military occupation of some of the ex-German possessions, to which steamers are running from Kobe and Yokohama. There would appear to be no obstacle in the way for a friendly settlement of all the points at issue. One thing will not be tolerated, and that is further interference by Germany.

INFLUENCE OF THE ANTARCTIC CLIMATE.

Mr. Robert C. Messner, who has been awarded the Keith prize by the Royal Society of Edinburgh, is an authority on the climate and meteorology of the Antarctic regions. For some years he has been in charge of the meteorological station in the South Orkneys which was founded by Dr. Wm. S. Bruce during the voyage of the Scotia, and has since been maintained by the Argentine Government. Mr. Messner used to be a jeweller in Edinburgh, and began as an amateur to take meteorological records in his garden. He has gone very far, however, since those days. In the course of a lecture to the Scottish Meteorological Society, he said that from the results obtained on the expeditions of the last 20 years the meteorology of the Antarctic held a unique position by reason of its economic application. The rainfall of the middle latitudes of Argentina and Chile, the intensity of the Indian monsoon, the Nile flood, and indeed the general weather experienced all over the southern continents, were strongly influenced by previous weather and ice conditions in the vast waste of waters encircling the Antarctic Continent. In some years ice was abundant, and on other years there was little, so that the temperature, volume, and direction of the great ocean currents controlling the weather over the southern continents, and with an influence that extended over north of the line, varied greatly from one year to another.

THE TIN POSITION.

Whereas the London market for tin has been dominated for some months by the sensational advance in the East, a sharp, but not week was initiated on this side (says the Scotsman). The price, quoted at £17 per ton from the extreme high level of £380, and although the quotation in Singapore has also given way it is still above the London parity. The question is being asked whether London is once more to become the governing factor. Supplies here have increased considerably, the demand being met more liberally, and more tin which had been held back is coming out. An interesting piece of news is the announcement of a resumption of shipments from Java to the United States against orders placed months ago, which should relieve the American position, and the shipping aspect is said to be more reassuring. Meanwhile the tin trade demand in this country has been affected by the severe restrictions on the use of tin. Provided there are no further serious losses, it is assumed that the price will be allowed to fall to a more reasonable figure. American imports this year have been larger than ever before, yet the scarcity there is intense. Efforts are being made to develop production in North Carolina and California.

TOWN TALK.

The latest talks of the Oswald Road prove that our naval officers really possess names after all. There was an impression abroad that the Admiralty Censor had taken all their names away and given blanks in exchange. The Huns, an inspiring neutral says, are making flour from trees. But how can they keep the pot boiling if they eat all the firewood?

NEWS OF THE DAY.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The Straits Settlements 54 per cent War Loan has opened for subscription on July 20th.

Mr. A. Fong, Photographer of 31 Queen's Road, took some excellent photographs of the funeral of the late Sargt. Glendenning.

The rifle for the cushion at Messrs. Wm. Powell, Ltd. in aid of St. Dunstan's Home for the Blind was won by Ticket No. 21.

The Manila Observatory this morning gave warning of a typhoon near or over the northern Ladrones or Mariana Islands, moving W.N.W.

A distinct earthquake shock was felt by many residents in the Colony on Saturday evening a few minutes after eight o'clock. Later on news came in that a shock had been felt at about the same time, at Sag Tin, Cheung Chau and Sai Kung.

We regret that the letter signed "Wireless," recently published by us should have been considered as a personal attack on the acting District Officer (South). No such attack was intended, the letter being merely comment on the administration of the Southern District during the past twenty years, by many District Officers and others. We have no grounds for believing that the present officer's administration has been in any way different from that of his predecessors who were included in the reference.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

The death is announced in Japan of M. Auguste Vernon, who for the past two years has been manager of the Kaitin Hotel at Kamakura. Mr. Vernon, before he went to Japan, was for a time the lessee of the Boa Vista Hotel, Macao. He was 67 years of age.

The death of Mr. A. Jordan, Senior Superintendent for the Far East of the Great Northern Telegraph Company is announced. He died at Nagasaki. Mr. Jordan, who was 59 years of age, first arrived in the Far East in 1883 and during his residence in Shanghai and in Japan made a host of friends. For several years he was Chairman of the Committee of the Nagasaki Club.

GODOWN COLLAPSES IN DES VOUX ROAD.

TWO CHINESE KILLED.

Whilst a number of coolies were working in a godown at No. 274 Des Vaux Road, yesterday afternoon, a portion of the first floor collapsed. The majority of the coolies were able to rush out of the building and escape unhurt, but three were buried beneath the debris. A rescue party immediately set to work and one of the coolies was got out, who received a certain amount of injury and severe shock. Further search was made for the other two men and they were eventually reached but both were dead.

Dr. Lindsay Woods, Dr. Thomas and Dr. Ma Chui Ki were quickly on the scene together with Mr. T. H. King, Deputy Superintendent of Police, members of the Queen's College Division, the Y.M.C.A. Division, and the Salvation Army Division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, and also Police Reserve units.

The cause of the collapse has so far not been ascertained.

SEQUEL TO GRESSON STREET TRAGEDY.

Ng Ning, who was recently tried for murder, but acquitted, in connection with the Gresson Street affray, has been shot by the Canton authorities, to whom he was handed over by the Hongkong authorities.

It transpires that Ng Ning was a well-known robber, and had committed many robberies in the Shan Tai district.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

[BEFORE MR. JUSTICE DAVIES, K.C., CHIEF JUSTICE.]

ARMED ROBBERY ON A JUNK.

Li Tsun, Li Tsing, Tsang Ki and Lam Lum were charged with armed robbery on a junk at Tai Long, on June 2.

The accused pleaded not guilty. The Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. H. Wakeman) prosecuted and the accused were undefended.

The jury were Messrs. A. L. Alves, F. X. da Silva, W. F. Stone, A. K. Rahumad, M. Baptista, L. Hyndman and A. H. Abbas.

The Crown Solicitor, outlining the case, said that the four prisoners were charged with the offense of robbery on a junk at Tai Long. The robbery took place on the morning of June 2. The complainant sailed his junk from Hongkong and, when off Tai Long, two boats rowed up, and the occupants ordered the junk to heave to, presenting revolvers and flourishing knives at the owner of the junk and the crew of four. The robbers boarded the junk and forced the crew into their boats and making the owner a prisoner on the junk, sailed off and unladen the cargo some distance from Tai Long. The robbers then returned and putting the crew back aboard the junk let them sail away on June 27. The master recognised two of the robbers and informed the police and subsequently the four accused were arrested.

After hearing the evidence the jury found the accused guilty.

His Lordship sentenced each of the accused to seven years' hard labour and ten strokes of the cat.

[BEFORE MR. JUSTICE COMPERTZ.]

THE CAT FOR ARMED ROBBERIES.

Chin Chun Bing, Leung Chan Kwong, Fung Yew Ting, and Chu Wa who were found guilty on Friday last, of committing an armed robbery at Wood Road on May 18th, and stealing jewellery and money to the value of over $2,000, were sentenced as follows:—The first accused, five years' hard labour, and twelve strokes of the cat; the second and third accused, each five years' hard labour and ten strokes of the cat, and the fourth accused six years' hard labour.

Lo Ho Sang, who was found guilty, last Friday, of forging a document, and also, with soliciting a forged document, was sentenced to three years' hard labour.

THE MAGISTRACY.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

This morning, before Mr. J. R. Wood, a Chinese was charged with attempting to commit suicide by jumping into the harbour from a passenger boat.

The man admitted being drunk, but he said he took liquor to finish himself. He had come from Namhong, which was the scene of much fighting between the North and the South. In consequence of this internecine strife his property was lost and his people scattered. He went to Canton to trace his father and relations, but his search proved futile. He then came to Hongkong and in vain pursued the enquiry. Becoming desperate, he decided to put an end to his misery by throwing himself into the sea.

Mr. Wood remanded the case for a week.

THEFT OF SANITARY BOARD PROPERTY.

Inspector Koyah, of the Sanitary Board, charged two Chinese this morning before Mr. J. R. Wood, one with stealing and the other with receiving a cloth wrapper belonging to the Sanitary Board, valued at $3.

The case against the man charged with stealing was partly heard, and both cases were adjourned till tomorrow.

CAN YOU AFFORD THE RISK?

Where you ever sat with a severe attack of cramp colic or diarrhoea without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house? Do not take such risks. A dose or two will surely before a doctor could possibly be called, and never fails to cure the most severe and dangerous cases. "How safe," all Chemists and Storekeepers.

BLAZON TYPE NOT NECESSARY.

CHAMBERLAIN'S Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy needs no glowing headline to attract the public eye. This simple statement that all chemists sell it is sufficient, as every family knows its value. It has been used for forty years and is just what is wanted in all cases of cramp colic, cholera, and diarrhoea. It is sold by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

THE FIRE IN BELCHERS STREET.

MAGISTERIAL ENQUIRY.

An enquiry was held this afternoon by Mr. J. R. Wood into the fire which broke out in Belchers Street on the 16th.

Mr. E. Davidson appeared for the Nam Mau Company, and Mr. Lewis represented the Hu Hong Insurance Co., the China Hong Ming Insurance Co., and the Young Yeh Insurance Co.

Inspector M. Macdonald, in charge of No. 7 Station, said that at 4.5 a.m. on the 16th instant, he received a message from Kennedy Town, and he gave orders to the Fire Alarm to notify the Fire Brigade. He then proceeded to the scene of the fire in Belchers Street and arrived there at 6.15 a.m. when he found $90 on fire on the ground, first and second floors. The adjoining buildings were also alight at the time. No. 39C and 39E were alight on the ground and first floors. The other buildings in the block were not alight at the time. The fire was spreading rapidly with a strong wind blowing north-west. He saw the first stand pipe fixed and water was got immediately. Pressure was not too strong. There were several deliveries. He thought they were from 4-inch mains. There was sufficient pressure for two deliveries. The congestion of buildings helped in the fire spreading. The buildings consisted of godowns on the ground floor and dwelling flats on top, with the exception of 39C, where the upper floors were used partly as godowns and dwellings. It seemed to him that the fire originated on the ground floor of 39C, and the exception of two houses, G and H, developed rapidly. 39G and 39H escaped owing to the direction of the wind and the supply of water from the fire floats. By 8.30 the six houses were alight and by 9.30 the conflagration was got under control, but it smouldered for some time after.

The Magistrate: Have you any idea as to the cause of the fire?—I have not the slightest idea. The godowns appeared to me to have been well-stocked.

The Magistrate: Did you see any signs of foul play?—No.

I see from your report that the fire spread for want of sufficient pressure. What do you mean?—I mean that an 8 or 6 inch main would have got the fire under control.

And the fire also spread to the top floor of 28 Priya?—Yes.

Mr. Davidson: What led you to suppose that the fire started at 39E when you say you saw the fire burning at D?—Because it had a stronger hold on E. There was a large quantity of oil in the godown. I think in A, B and D there was a larger quantity of oil.

The Magistrate said the inquiry was being held by request of the insurance companies interested. The three insurance companies whom Mr. Lewis represented had asked for a Magisterial inquiry. The Police had sent in their report, and they said there was no suspicion of arson.

The inquiry is proceeding.

BOY SCOUT CAPTURED ESCAPED GERMAN.

PLUCKY HOLD-UP ON THE KETTERING ROAD.

CAPTIVES MARCHED TO THE POLICE STATION.

"Hands up!" Two escaped German prisoners heard the challenge near Kettering and found themselves covered by a Boy Scout with a loaded gun.

Up shot their hands above their heads. "Right about turn," march. None of the captives made a move. One of the captives, the 17-year-old son of the landlord of the village inn at Old, close by Kettering, was the Boy Scout in question. He had heard that two prisoners had escaped from the Bothwell Gaol and joined in the hide-and-cry when word came that the men were known to be in the neighbourhood. Walking along the road near States Lodge, Gibson saw two strangers approaching. Instantly told him his quest was over, and he challenged them as described. They were guarded by him at Broughton police station until a police superintendent arrived by motor from Kettering.

The Germans are Heinrich Schmidt (35) and Theodore Jauch (23). They got away from Bothwell Camp last Sunday night. The only thing that indicated their position was the red stripe down their trousers. The police at Kettering had information that the men had been seen near Broughton, on the main Kettering road, but young Gibson by that time had them in safe custody. His pluck and resource will be brought to the notice of the authorities.

MESSRS. BRADLEY & CO.

Messrs. K. S. Morrison and P. Bevington had been passed as medically fit.

Mr. J. A. Plummer represented the firm.

The Chairman said the Tribunal understood that the firm was one of the oldest firms of merchants in China having been established for more than fifty years. The Tribunal understood that during the war the firm had carried out important Government contracts relating to coal from Japan, and also chartered ships. Absolute exemption was asked for in each case.

The firm's pre-war staff was five Europeans and about seven Portuguese and Chinese. The staff to-day is three Europeans, the Portuguese and Chinese, remaining about the same. Two men had left for military service and it was possible that Mr. Plummer himself might have to leave the Colony on important business.

Mr. Plummer said that it would not be possible to draw on any of the other branches of the firm.

Major Morgan urged non-exemption in the case of one.

Exemption was granted.

Major Morgan urged non-exemption in the case of two.

Exemption was granted in the case of Messrs. L. A. Cosart and W. Manning and no exemption in the case of Mr. M. M. Maas.

MR. H. HANCOCK.

Mr. H. Hancock, passed as medically fit.

The Chairman said that Mr. Hancock was the sole partner in his firm. It is the oldest established firm of Exchange brokers in the Colony, having been established for more than 60 years. Mr. Hancock, the Tribunal understood, asked for absolute exemption on the ground that it was for the essential interest of the Colony that there should be Exchange brokers and that Mr. Hancock's business required that he personally should be here.

Mr. Hancock said he had been away from the Colony for only fifteen months during 20 years, during which time the interests of his firm had been looked after by three other firms. That was not practicable now.

The Chairman said that the Tribunal had received letters from the three European Banks of the Colony stating that they considered Mr. Hancock's retention in Hongkong essential in the interest of the Colony's trade, and that any further reduction of the present number of European Exchange brokers would be detrimental to such interests. Mr. Hancock confirmed that the Tribunal understood.

Major Morgan urged non-exemption in the case of two.

THE MILITARY SERVICE TRIBUNAL.

TO-DAY'S CASES.

THE ASIATIC PETROLEUM CO.

Messrs. L. A. Cosart, W. Manning and M. M. Maas had been passed as medically fit.

Mr. Watson, on behalf of the Company, asked for exemption in each case.

The Chairman said the Tribunal understood that the Company put it to them that both for Imperial interests and for military supplies the business of the Company should be carried on. Mr. Watson also referred in his paper to a telegram from the Secretary of State, dated June 5th, this year, which says that the Minister of National Service asked that care should be taken not to dislocate the business of the Asiatic Petroleum Company by the withdrawal of any essential men for military service or for any service as they are furnishing important war supplies. That was a telegram sent to the Governor of the Colony by the Secretary of State. Mr. Watson put it to the Tribunal that on these three grounds all three men were essential and within the meaning of that telegram. The Company's pre-war staff was 20 Europeans, plus one included in the 20. Portuguese and Chinese numbered 17 and there were two ladies. Now the staff was 15 Europeans and one lady and the Marine Department is increased from one to two. Portuguese and Chinese were largely increased. Five men had left for military service and several more men were now contemplating going on leave. With this large staff did Mr. Watson put it that by some rearrangement of the work no men could be spared?

Mr. Watson: It is absolutely impossible.

Major Morgan urged non-exemption in the case of two.

Exemption was granted in the case of Messrs. L. A. Cosart and W. Manning and no exemption in the case of Mr. M. M. Maas.

MR. H. HANCOCK.

Mr. H. Hancock, passed as medically fit.

TELEGRAMS.

THE GREAT BATTLE.

AMERICANS CONTINUE TO ADVANCE.

LONDON, July 20, 5.30 a.m.
An American communiqué states: Between the Aisne and the Marne we continue to progress.

THE GERMAN RETREAT ACROSS THE MARNE.

LONDON, July 20, 11.35 p.m.
The German retreat across the Marne is confirmed by a German communiqué, which laboriously explains that the object of the first crossing of the Marne was to divert the French forces. As this was achieved it was unnecessary to further hold the ground south of the river. Therefore, the troops were withdrawn to fulfil important tasks.

A GERMAN REPORT.

LONDON, July 21, 1.5 a.m.
A wireless German official report states:—

The enemy again attempted to breach the whole of our front from the Aisne to the Marne. Tanks early penetrated our forward lines, but the first enemy thrust was defeated by noon on the heights south-westward of Soissons and westward of Hartennes, St. Naudy, and north-westward of Chateau Thierry. Further attacks in the evening broke down.
We threw back the enemy, northward of Hartennes, beyond their original lines.
We withdrew unnoticed to the north bank of the Marne during the night.

THE AMERICAN ADVANCE.

LONDON, July 21, 9.50 a.m.
An American communiqué, issued yesterday, says:—

Between the Aisne and the Marne we again broke the enemy's resistance and continued to advance taking many additional prisoners.

AN AMERICAN OFFICIAL REVIEW.

WASHINGTON, July 21.
General March, in his weekly statement, says the objective of the French and Americans between the Aisne and the Marne is the Soissons-Chateau Thierry railway, the control of which will impede the German retreat from south of the Marne.
General March believes the Germans prepared an offensive against the British northward of the French front simultaneously with the offensive of July 15th but for some reason it failed to materialize.
General March expresses the opinion that the fall of Soissons is imminent, and says the significance of the events in France is not that the Allies are holding the Germans or gaining ground, but are taking the offensive; which is of the greatest moral value.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S SON KILLED.

WASHINGTON, July 21.
A German aviator has confirmed Quentin Roosevelt's death. President Wilson has sent a message of sympathy to Colonel Roosevelt.

BRITISH BOMB ZEPPELIN STATION AT TONBERG.

LONDON, July 20.
COPENHAGEN, July 20.
British airmen, daringly attacked a Zeppelin station at Tonberg at 4.30 on the morning of the 19th. An eye-witness saw three machines bomb the airships. Between 20 to 30 bombs were dropped, four of which hit a great hangar. The walls of the latter, being constructed of stone and steel, were non-inflammable, but the inside was burnt out, and two Zeppelins were destroyed.

THE BRITISH FRONT.

BRITISH LINE IN METELEN SECTOR PUSHED FORWARD.

A GAIN OF 4,000 YARDS.

LONDON, July 20, 2.25 p.m.
Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig reports:—

As a result of our operations on the 19th our line in the Metelen sector was advanced on a front of about 4,000 yards and the village of Metelen with a group of buildings to the south-west is now held by the British.

On the extreme left the enemy offered considerable resistance. At other points our objectives were gained rapidly without difficulty. We took 425 prisoners.

The British carried out a successful night raid near Beaumont Hamel. Further north the British, after sharp fighting, pushed their line forward on a front of about a mile to the south of Subertome. There was hostile artillery firing in the neighbourhoods of St. Venant and Ypres.

ENEMY PURSUED.

LONDON, July 21, 12.30 a.m.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig reports:—
Minor operations in the Hebuterne sector met with continued success. Our pressure compelled the enemy to withdraw from Resignol Wood between Hebuterne and Buecy. This important local feature is now in our possession.
We followed up the enemy, who suffered a number of casualties. The total captures in Metelen are 453 men, 10 trench-mortars and 50 machine-guns.

AERIAL EXPLOITS.

Aeroplanes on the 19th dropped 17 tons of bombs on hostile dumps, railway stations and aerodromes. Our aviators on one occasion dropped bombs on an aerodrome from a height of 100 to 500 feet. One pilot landed on an aerodrome and machine-gunned the hangars before rising.
We brought down ten aeroplanes and six balloons. Seven British machines are missing.
Our night-fliers, despite the weather, dropped 14 tons of bombs on railways between Metz and Valenciennes and on the stations of Cambrai, Lille and Sacrin. A direct hit was obtained on a train at Sacrin.

AIR-RAIDS ON GERMANY.

DESTRUCTION OF ENEMY WORKS.

LONDON, July 21.
The Air Ministry announce:—
Our squadrons on the night of the 19th bombed the chemical works and docks of Mannheim. A fire broke out in the Badische aniline works.
We also effectively bombed two aerodromes and bombed and machine-gunned trains and road transport. One of our machines did not return.
We attacked Offenbourg and Oberndorf on Saturday and hit an engine shed in the former place. Bombs were observed in factories and railways in the latter place.
Our formations were heavily attacked. We destroyed one and drove down two hostile machines. Three of our machines have not returned.

CO-OPERATION OF NAVAL AIRCRAFT.

LONDON, July 20.
The Admiralty states:—
Aeroplane, despatched from a detachment of the Grand Fleet operating off the Jutland Coast on the morning of the 19th carried out two attacks on Zeppelin sheds at Tonberg and Schleswig. All our machines but one reached their objective.
We scored direct hits on a large double shed, which was completely destroyed. Two other sheds were hit but owing to fierce anti-aircraft fire and the volume of smoke emitted from one it was impossible to observe whether the destruction was complete. The attacks were made at a height of 700 to 1,000 feet.
Four British aeroplanes did not return. Three of them landed in Danish territory. It is assumed that two Zeppelins were destroyed.

THE ITALIAN FRONT.

ITALIANS CAPTURE MT. STABEL.

NUMEROUS PRISONERS AND WAR MATERIAL CAPTURED.

LONDON, July 20.
An Italian official report states:—
Our detachments at Adamello captured Mount Stabel.

We completely re-occupied Cornolli-Cavento.
The enemy left many dead and numerous prisoners in our hands besides a large quantity of war material.

ENEMY ATTACK IN MACEDONIA.

ONLY A TEMPORARY SUCCESS.

LONDON, July 20.
An Italian official report states:—
The enemy attacked westward of Hill 1030, in Macedonia. We firmly held up the thrust and, counter-attacking, compelled the enemy to restore its disorder.

BULGARIANS HEAVILY DEFEATED.

LONDON, July 20.

All were saved except five engine-room men.
The survivors are being brought in.

THE EX-TSAR.

REPORTED TO BE SHOT.

LONDON, July 20.
A wireless Russian official message states:—
The Central Executive Committee issues a message made public from the Ural Regional Council concerning the shooting of the ex-Czar, Ekaterinburg is being seriously threatened by the approach of Czech-Slovaks and simultaneously a Counter-Revolutionary conspiracy to wrest the ex-Czar from the Council's authority was discovered.
The Ural Regional Council, therefore, decided to shoot the ex-Czar Nicholas, which decision was carried out on July 16th.

SERIOUS FOOD TROUBLES IN AUSTRIA.

SCHOOL CHILDREN CALLOUSLY SHOT.

ZURICH, July 20.
Details of the brutal murder of five school children and six others at Pylen on the June 21st have only now become known through an interpellation in the Reichstag.
It appears that a crowd of women and children who were watching the loading of a bread wagon for the Skoda works began to cry: "We are starving; we also want bread." Suddenly an infantry patrol appeared and, without an order to disperse or a single word of warning, fired a volley from behind into the crowd, killing five children between the ages 10 and 13, and severely wounding four men and two women. One man died.

CHOLERA IN MOSCOW AND PETROGRAD.

LONDON, July 20.
A Russian official wireless message mentions that there are 224 known cases and 78 suspected cases of cholera in Moscow and 150 cases in Petrograd.
Some amounting to $48,774 realized from the sale of German cargoes seized on the outbreak of war were pronounced "good and lawful prizes" by the Peace Court.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

THE COUNTER-OFFENSIVE.

GENERAL ATTACK NOT REHEWED.

LONDON, July 17.
Reuter's Correspondent at the French Headquarters, telegraphing at 11.30 last evening, says:—
The general attack was not renewed today, operations being of a local character with the balance of success with the French. It is expected the stabilization of the line will be reached in a few days.
Today's operations were dictated by the position in which various German Commanders found themselves after yesterday's failure and hence the battle differs entirely from that of the second day of the March and May offensives when the Germans pursued their original plan most vigorously for several days before they were checked.
German guns east of Rheims today fired from their old positions, the enemy not finding it worth while to advance them.

SUCCESSFUL COUNTER-ATTACK BY FRENCH AND AMERICANS.

LONDON, July 17.
Reuter's Correspondent at the American Headquarters, telegraphing on Tuesday evening, says:—
Combined French and American forces launched a heavy counter-attack in the morning between St. Agnan and Chapelle Mont Hodon. So far we have driven back the enemy for varying distances on the whole sector, capturing the villages of St. Agnan and Chapelle Mont Hodon, and Hill 223.
Comparatively large forces of Americans were engaged.
We increased the number of prisoners materially and the whole operation is progressing most satisfactorily.
The Germans fought most stubbornly, but were quite unable to withstand the Allied onslaught. The prisoners complain that the American artillery was too active and the troops fierce.
We inflicted extraordinary heavy casualties during the attack, which continues with increasing violence. It is ascertained that the enemy has largely used up his reserves since yesterday morning.
A small enemy local attack on the Americans west of Chateau Thierry was soon repulsed.

GERMAN LOSSES ESTIMATED AT 100,000.

LONDON, July 17.
Reuter is authoritatively informed that von Einem's army is now definitely engaged on the German left and yesterday delivered five attempts between the valley of Suippe and Mosaigies, all of which were repulsed with heavy losses. The estimated German losses in the offensive, so far, are nearly 100,000.

FRENCH LOSSES LIGHT.

PARIS, July 16.
A semi-official message says:—
While the enemy losses are frightful, ours are quite light, especially east of Rheims. If it were allowed to state the figure it would be most reassuring.
Whereas in the previous offensive we had to send for reinforcements from other parts of the front, this time those on the spot sufficed to sustain the shock. This is partly due to the constant influx of Americans every day reducing the disproportion of the forces.

THE COMMANDER OF THE SOUTHERN ARMY.

LONDON, July 20.
Correspondents in France mention the new French General De Gontaut as commanding the Southern Army in the present battle.

GERMAN REPORTS.

LONDON, July 19.
A wireless German official message states:—
The enemy renewed his attacks with great violence eastward of Villers Bretonneux. A great united enemy counter-attack against our whole front southward of the Marne broke down with very heavy losses. Our counter-attack threw the enemy out of small places south-eastward of Maunul, in which he had temporarily penetrated. We stormed the ridge southward of Pourcey capturing the defenders and several guns.

POSSIBLE EFFECT OF THE COUNTER-STROKE.

LONDON, July 19.
The latest news is that the French are still on the outskirts of Soissons. In the north of the sector they captured 1,000 prisoners and 30 guns.
The enemy is tentatively retreating in the centre and south, where, however, fighting is still going on. Many prisoners were taken. It is impossible to judge the full effect of the counter-stroke until it has profoundly affected the German positions.
The French are now concentrating important enemy roads and communications, along which the German reinforcements, munitions, etc., have to come to the Rheims salient.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END.

AUSTRALIAN PREMIER'S PREDICTION.

LONDON, July 20.
The Rt. Hon. W. M. Hughes, at Cardiff, responding to the toast of the "Honorary Graduates" at the University of Wales dinner, yesterday evening, said that General Bodley's attack was the beginning of the end of the war. If the Germans failed now they failed utterly. The great American Republic could not be beaten, nor would Great Britain, unless some creeping paralysis attacked the will of the people. We only needed to stand firm and not create conditions of peace which would provoke fresh aggressive wars. After two years' absence he found the spirit of the people of England better than it was in 1916. They understood more completely every day what the war meant spiritually and materially. Therefore, we were going on. It was a matter of life or death for the Dominion and for Australia.

THE FRENCH NATIONAL DAY.

BRITISH ARMY'S ADMIRATION.

LONDON, July 15.
The Press Bureau announces that Sir Douglas Haig has sent a message to President Poincaré on the occasion of the National Anniversary expressing, on behalf of the British Army in France, a feeling beyond admiration for the magnificent French Army. The Field-Marshal says: "The rallying of free nations during the past year in the fight for civilization and the closer cohesion of the Allied military forces, affords assurance of victory. We look forward to the future with absolute confidence."

RUSSIAN AFFAIRS.

THE QUESTION OF INTERVENTION.

ALLIED NEGOTIATIONS NOT CONCLUDED.

NEW YORK, July 20.
The Associated Press Correspondent at Washington states that negotiations continue between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan regarding the character of the aid to be given to Russia.
No agreement has been reached.

BRITISH LAND ON MURMAN COAST.

AMSTERDAM, July 15.
The Frankfurter Zeitung says that the British troops who landed on the Murman coast advanced and occupied Kem station on the White Sea.

CZECHO-SLOVAKS CAPTURE KAZAN.

AMSTERDAM, July 16.
The Tagblatt announces that the Czech-Slovaks, despite a very heavy resistance by the Red Guards, have captured Kazan.
The Tagblatt adds:—By the occupation of this important railway and waterway junction the Czech-Slovaks become masters of the Government of the Lower Volga.

CZECHO-SLOVAKS UTILISE TROTSKY'S TROOPS.

LONDON, July 15.
The German newspapers state in connection with the capture of Kazan by the Czech-Slovaks, that the latter are utilizing Trotsky's mobilization in the Ural, on the Volga and in West Siberia for their own purposes by forming from the recruits, the so-called Black Guards, which are being used for strengthening the Czech-Slovak and other counter-revolutionary forces.

NEW GOVERNMENTS IN SIBERIA.

LONDON, July 15.
The Daily Mail's Correspondent at Harbin says that General Horvath's Government includes Cadets, Liberals and Socialists and all the prominent men of commercial, industrial and agricultural life in Siberia. General Horvath is the head of the Chinese Eastern Railway and his Government must not be confused with the so-called Government of autonomous Siberia, which the Bolsheviks dissolved. The leader, Dzerzhinsky, has his headquarters in a railway car in Harbin.
Another Socialist Government is that of Nikolaev which is negotiating with the Czech-Slovaks before proclaiming itself.

CHINA TO BUILD SHIPS FOR AMERICA.

WASHINGTON, July 15.
The American Shipping Board has given the Chinese Government, yard at Shanghai contracts for four cargo boats of 10,000 tons each. The yard has taken the option of building 20,000 more tons and 35,000 tons of steel will be shipped from America, but the engines and other fitting will be built in China.

THE FIGHTING IN ALBANIA.

AUSTRIANS ADMIT ALLIED ADVANCE.

LONDON, July 15.
A wireless Albanian official message from Albania states:—
The enemy is gradually pressing forward, against our new line of resistance.

THE FRENCH ADVANCE.

FINE ACHIEVEMENTS BY FRENCH AND AMERICANS.

SIXTEEN THOUSAND PRISONERS TAKEN BY FRENCH.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail)

A BRILLIANT FEAT.

SWIFT FRENCH ADVANCE.

ENEMY SITUATION EXTRA-ORDINARILY DIFFICULT.

LONDON, July 19.

A continuation of the Havas review of the situation given in last night's China Mail says:—
The counter-offensive succeeded extremely well and the situation is regarded as extremely promising. The absence of artillery preparation rendered the action a complete surprise. The enemy artillery reaction was very weak whereas the French counter-battery work was most effective.

A noteworthy fact is that the French accomplished in great detail more than was achieved by the German drive on both sides of Rheims. The length of the front is practically the same, while the French advanced in six hours practically double the distance that the Germans covered in three days. So far as is at present known, the junction of the line from Soissons to Duchy-le-Chatelard, and also from Soissons towards Esmes, is under direct observation of fire from the new French position on the Crise Ravine. These two lines are the only ones by which the Germans in the Soissons-Rheims salient can be supplied, and if the French position can be maintained the German situation there will be extraordinarily difficult. Possibly, however, the Germans may have succeeded in otherwise linking up the lines.

The French counter-attack may be regarded as one of the most brilliant pieces of work in the war. They obtained most important strategic positions and the advance has ended the German offensive. Rheims is now considered comparatively safe.
The French reached all their first objectives. They lost some ground in local scuffling south of the Marne, but are still within effective range of the German bridges, though possibly they have lost direct observation.
The Allies regained ground further east in a good many sectors, especially west of Meuse.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

A FRONT OF 45 KILOMETRES. OVER 20 VILLAGES RE-CAPTURED.

LONDON, July 19.

A French communiqué states:—
After breaking the German offensive on the fronts in Champagne and Montagne-de-Rheims on the 15th, 16th and 17th, the French, in conjunction with American troops on the 18th, advanced an attack on the German positions between the Aisne and the Marne on a front of 45 kilometres.

Starting from the front of Amblemy, Longpont, Troennes and Bouresches, we considerably advanced into the enemy's line and reached the plateau commanding Soissons on the south-west and the region of Chaulmieu.

Violent fighting is going on between Villers-Helding and Noyon-sur-Cher.

The troops south of the Marne passed the general line of Marigny-St. Genesieve-Hautecombe-Belleu.

Over 20 villages were re-captured and several thousands of prisoners and important booty taken.

There is nothing important to report elsewhere.

BRILLIANT WORK BY AVIATORS.

Aviators participated very brilliantly in the battle of the 16th and 17th. Bombing machines on the 16th incessantly attacked the Marne bridges. The Germans debouching on the northern and southern banks were machine-gunned and bombed. They lost heavily and were frequently scattered. The bridge thrown in front of Dormans was flooded with projectiles and collapsed, and convoys crossing were engulfed.

Twenty-one tons of explosives were dropped during the day and 14 tons at night on the enemy rear. There were explosions and fires, and much damage was observed.

There were numerous air fights. Twenty-nine German machines were brought down or disabled. Five balloons were set on fire. In spite of a gale and torrential showers on the 17th, good results were obtained. Twelve German machines and four balloons were brought down or destroyed. Six tons of explosives were employed in the attacks on the Marne crossings.

BITTER FIGHTING CONTINUES.

FRENCH RETAKE MONS-TOISIN.

LONDON, July 19.

A French communiqué states:—
Between the Aisne and the Marne, overcoming the resistance of the enemy, who had brought up fresh reserves, we last evening advanced appreciably and took more prisoners. The battle continues bitterly.

West of Rheims we delivered lively attacks yesterday.

South of the Marne we have retaken Mons Toisin and have thrown back the enemy to the eastern outskirts of Oeuilly.

North of the river we progressed in Bois-du-Roc and Bois-du-Couston, between La Poterie and Pouney, and carried our lines a kilometre to the west of that point.

Further north the Italians carried the Arde mill and captured ground in the region of Bouilly.

We took over 400 prisoners and captured four guns and 80 machine-guns in these actions.

Between Montdidier, Noyon and Woivre, we took 100 prisoners in raids.

FRENCH CAPTURES.

16,000 PRISONERS AND 48 GUNS.

LONDON, July 19.

7.55 p.m.

The French have captured 48 guns and 16,000 prisoners.

AMERICANS DEEPLY PENETRATE ENEMY LINES.

MANY PRISONERS AND GUNS TAKEN.

LONDON, July 19.

An American communiqué states:—
American troops, co-operating with the French, between the Aisne and the Marne, penetrated the enemy lines to a depth of several miles, capturing many prisoners and guns.

GERMANS CLAIM 20,000 PRISONERS.

LONDON, July 20.

A wireless German official report states:—

Between the Aisne and the Marne the French penetrated by a surprise attack our front lines at isolated points and pressed us back.

We defeated French attacks to the south-west of Soissons, to Neufilly. Strong enemy partial attacks against our new lines on the whole front broke down.

Enemy attacks to the south-east of Marcell and Roi Wood, astride Pourcy, failed.

We have taken 20,000 prisoners since July 15th.

LATER.

A wireless German official report states:—

A fresh French attempt to break through between the Aisne and the Marne failed.

PRESS CORRESPONDENTS REPORTS.

THE ELEMENT OF SURPRISE.

FIRST ALLIED OFFENSIVE SINCE MARCH.

LONDON, July 19.

Reuter's Correspondent at French Headquarters, telegraphing at 7 o'clock on the evening of Thursday, says:—

The Germans were so completely surprised that officers were captured and able men taken, while cutting rye in the fields behind the first lines.

Heavy thunderstorms and violent rain last night enabled the "storm troops" to take up positions unobserved, and this may account for the enemy's lack of vigilance. Numerous prisoners were taken during the first hour.

The French advanced most dashingly. A battalion crossed the river at Savieres waist deep, gliding.

So far the operation may be judged to be a big diversion on the flank of the enemy salient between the Aisne and the Marne with a view to arresting his offensive towards Epernay, and Montagne de Rheims.

It is the first time since March 21st that the Allied Command has taken the initiative on such a scale, doubtless owing to the wearing down of the enemy and the arrival of the Americans.

LARGEST HAUL OF MEN SINCE MALMAISON BATTLE.

SITUATION NOT FREE FROM ANXIETY.

LONDON, July 19.

Reuter's Correspondent at French Headquarters, telegraphing at 11 o'clock on the evening of Thursday, says:—

The importance of today's success has become hourly clearer. On the left wing our troops captured the high plateau overlooking Soissons from the south-west, and cut, or have under fire, the Soissons-Thierry highway, which is the main feeder of the enemy front on the Oisette-Thierry sector. Soissons-Villers Cotterets railway is also cut.

At several points infiltration movements were effected by cavalry riding through gaps in the enemy's retreating line, establishing themselves in villages further ahead.

The haul of men and guns is the largest the Allies have made on any one day since the battle of Malmaison in October.

The cutting of the railway prevents effective co-operation by the Germans north and south of the Aisne. It is going to be a serious problem for the Germans to remain on this salient.

Another important factor is the Crown Prince's remaining reserves. They must be gradually absorbed in the adjustment of their line, which will be necessary if the French retain the gains.

However, the situation for the Allies is not free from anxiety.

The Crown Prince Rupprecht still possesses formidable reserves, which cannot long remain inactive against the British.

It is now definitely ascertained that not more than 30 Divisions were used in the German offensive, 23 of which were drawn from the general reserve.

The Germans yesterday re-captured Prunay.

HUGE BOOTY BY AMERICANS.

WARM THANKS OF FRENCH COMMANDER.

LONDON, July 19.

Reuter's Correspondent at American Headquarters, telegraphing at 8.30 this evening, says:—

After passing this morning's third objective the Americans and French south of Soissons launched a second attack at noon, which swept on so fast that cavalry was thrown in late in the afternoon. All the Headquarters spoke were to-night well inside the territory captured this morning.

The Americans south of Soissons up to noon had counted 2,400 prisoners. Fifty guns were captured and immense material, including a number of aeroplanes which the enemy were unable to remove. Many of the prisoners have not been counted.

The Americans north of Chateau Thierry captured more prisoners and an equal quantity of material. The attack progressed so far that the enemy in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry is in a risky position.

American troops are most elated. They received the very warm thanks of the French Commander.

The attack in the afternoon was even more dashingly than that of the morning. Only here and there did badly frightened Germans attempt to stand, and the Americans rushed these with revolver, rifle and bayonet.

AMERICANS GO OVER WITH A YELL.

ENEMY EVERYWHERE COMPLETELY SURPRISED.

Reuter's Correspondent at American Headquarters, telegraphing at 6 in the evening on Thursday, says:—

Large numbers of American "storm troops" co-operated with the French in the powerful offensive this morning. Numerous Tanks participated. The Americans went over the top with a yell, without artillery preparation.

The Germans stoutly resisted ferociously, and there stubborn fighters were quickly vanquished by American bayonets. The enemy everywhere was completely surprised.

The attack was most successful in the region of Soissons, where the final objectives were passed. The whole operation is at present more successful even than was expected. Many guns have been captured. They included the sixteen from one town.

The whole of the German left flank is menaced. The enemy must bring up troops from the Marne front or leave them in danger. The Americans, trained to the last notch, behaved like veterans. Nothing stopped them.

There was the closest co-operation between the artillery and infantry. Light and heavy guns were moved up and very swiftly engaged with shells the enemy forces retreating or in reserve.

The Tanks did all that was expected of them, preceding and accompanying the infantry and clearing many places that escaped the artillery. Hastily organised enemy counter-attacks here and there were all broken up. Resistance was most stubborn east of Chaulmieu. Fighting is likely to become heavier as the German reserves arrive.

PARISIANS OVERJOYED.

LAST BOLT SHOT BY GERMANS.

LONDON, July 19.

The news of the splendid counter-offensive has spread most rapidly.

The Parisians are overjoyed. The general opinion is that the Germans have shot their last bolt.

COMMANDER OF THE COUNTER-OFFENSIVE.

LONDON, July 19.

The Commander of the counter-offensive is General Mangin.

He fought with General Howard in several Colonial campaigns, and was responsible for the recapture of Domfront in 1916. It was he who arrested the German tide near Montdidier after the falling back of the British, while recently he commanded the big counter-attack at Belloy, which pulled up the enemy's thrust towards Compiègne.

GENERALISSIMO FOCH'S STRATEGY.

LONDON, July 19.

The stroke with which Generalissimo Foch so swiftly transformed the battle position is welcomed by the newspapers as equally surprising and brilliant in its results. It is perhaps the most cheering to the Allies since 1914.

Even those most optimistic on Tuesday when the extent of the German defeat east of Rheims was known were hardly prepared for the dramatic speed with which Generalissimo Foch's strategy developed.

Experts compare it with the battle of the Ourcq in September, 1914 by which General Manoury prepared the way to the great victory on the Marne.

Some of the previously brilliant episodes of the war have given such solid ground for confidence as this double operation of defence and attack. Nevertheless, a warning is uttered against over-sanguine anticipations.

It is pointed out that the enemy is certain to violently react against the menace to his whole position on the Marne, and Generalissimo Foch, now that he has reached the enemy communications, may be content to hold the territory won without attempting to push the advantage further.

Enemy aircraft was active and attacked our bombers.

We destroyed three aeroplanes and drove down four. Two British machines are missing and two crashed after collision.

Our bombers hindered enemy attempts to save the destroyer recently sunk off Zeebrugge.

POLA BOMBED BY ITALIANS.

LONDON, July 18.

An Italian official message states:—
On the night of the 16-17th Italian Naval airships and aeroplanes dropped 8,000 kilograms of bombs on military works and the maritime fortress of Pola.

Naval aircraft re-bombed Pola on the morning of the 17th, on both occasions with visibly good effect. They also bombed successfully hangars in the Isle of Lagaeta, in the middle of the Adriatic.

All our machines safely returned.

A TORPEDOED TRANSPORT.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST PANIC.

LONDON, July 20.

Details of the Bavaria explosion show that it shook the vessel from stem to stern, extinguishing lights and causing patients from their berths. Two bulkheads collapsed, but though the ship seemed to be rapidly sinking, there was not the slightest panic. The men took their stations singing Australian songs and merrily watched the half submerged submarine circling at the stern 200 yards away. The gun crew was flattened out by the explosion, but jumped to their feet and fired at the submarine which disappeared.

Seven boats and twenty rafts got away.

The ship was crowded with 900 invalids, including a dozen helpless cripples.

The steamer soon settled down and many had to jump to reach the rafts. British warships, shelled up and manoeuvred to create a wash shepherding the floaters in the direction of the rafts.

The sea was a spectacle of extraordinary confusion, men clinging to all sorts of objects. Sometimes it resembled an aquatic carnival, but nevertheless, some of the incapacitated men, especially those suffering from shell-shock, suffered terribly. Many floaters exhausted by the cold took long to reanimate. The rescue was a miracle of discipline and organization and the soldiers' tenderness for their suffering mates was heart-stirring.
